

WAIT RESULTS OF PRIMARIES

Democrats May Play Important Part In Tomorrow's Senatorial Contests.

STEPHENSON MEN ARE CONFIDENT

In Congressional Contests, Nolan, Minor And Jenkins Are Thought To Have Waged Successful War On Their Opponents.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 31.—Every-thing is now done that can be done to promote the success of the different candidates at tomorrow's primary. The final batch of campaign literature has been sent forth and the results of the labor of the summer. Everything points to the fact that the democrats will play an important part in tomorrow's voting. This is evident from reports from all over the state. The democratic leaders are in despair over the situation, but state openly that it is a fact that democrats will cast the deciding ballots at the republican primaries.

It is thought that Stephenson will get the majority of these votes and that Trotterman will also have his share of their support. The Stephenson managers today give out the state that he will be nominated with Hutton or Cook second. Managers

NEWS FORECAST OF THE COMING WEEK

Campaign to be Opened in Ohio and Primaries in Wisconsin and Michigan.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—Several events during the coming week will serve to quicken political activity throughout the country. William J. Bryan is slated for several speeches in the Dakotas and Minnesota. Judge Taft will stay at Middle Bass Island until the end of the week, when he will go to Cincinnati to remain until election day. Thomas F. Hagan, presidential candidate of the independence party, will spend the early part of the week in Indiana and Ohio and will then start on a speaking tour of the Northwestern states. Eugene V. Debs, candidate of the socialist party, plans to leave Chicago Monday on a tour that will take him to the Pacific coast.

The big event of the week will be the formal opening of the Ohio republican campaign at Youngstown Saturday, at which Governor Hughes of New York will be the chief speaker. The meeting will practically mark the opening of the republican campaign for the whole country, and the speech which Governor Hughes will deliver has been prepared with that fact in view.

General state primaries will be held in Michigan and Wisconsin. In Michigan the interest centers principally in the contest for the republican gubernatorial nomination, in which Governor Warner is fighting for a third term and is opposed by two able opponents. In Wisconsin the interest revolves around the fight for the United States senatorship. Four candidates are engaged in a bitter fight for the republican nomination. They are Senator Isaac Stephenson, who is a candidate to succeed himself; former State Senator William H. Hutton, Francis E. McGovern, the fighting district attorney of Milwaukee county, and former Congressman S. A. Cook of Neenah. The fight of Representative John J. Jenkins, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, to retain his seat in congress is also attracting attention.

The state election in Vermont takes place Tuesday, but the opinion of the best political leaders of both parties the result will afford no reliable forecast of the national election to come in November.

The Atlantic battleship fleet will spend the week at Melbourne, where preparations have been made on the same elaborate scale as at Auckland and Sydney for the entertainment of the officers and men.

The veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic and members of the various auxiliary organizations will meet in annual reunion in Toledo and at the same time the United Spanish War Veterans will hold their annual encampment in Boston.

GIVEN SURPRISE ON SIXTEENTH BIRTHDAY

William Joseph Hill is recipient of many beautiful gifts from his many friends.

Some sixty of William Joseph Hill's many friends tendered him a surprise party yesterday at the home of his parents, No. 3 Riverside street, in honor of his sixteenth birthday. Many beautiful and costly presents were given him, including a gold ring and beautiful scarf pins. Refreshments were served and the affair was a success.

SPANISH WAR VETS HOLD BIG REUNION

Fifth Annual National Encampment Opens in Boston with Great Crowd Present.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Boston, Mass., Aug. 31.—With public and private buildings elaborately decorated in the national colors, the gates of Boston were thrown open today to greet the delegates and veterans to the fifth annual national encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans and the Ladies Auxiliary of that organization. Each arriving train and boat brought its quota of visitors, and it was early seen that the number in attendance would exceed all expectations.

A banquet at the Quincey House tonight marks the formal opening of the gathering. The business sessions will begin in Faneuil hall tomorrow morning and the big parade is scheduled for Wednesday. The delegates present will come from every state and territory of the union, from Alaska, Porto Rico, Alaska and the Philippines. Twenty-six new camps will be represented.

A lively contest is expected for the office of commander-in-chief. Major Walter S. Hale of California, the present head of the organization, is being hoisted for reelection. Other prominent veterans whose names are mentioned in connection with the honor are James A. Freed of Youngstown, O., Charles W. Newton of Hartford, Conn., and Maurice Simmons of New York city.

DISMISSED CASE AGAINST YEAGER

Adjournment Taken in Action Against Wilmer Armstrong—Other Court and Police Notes.

In municipal court this morning the case against Russell Yeager, who was arrested on Aug. 19 on a charge preferred by agents of the Orange Judd Farmer, was dismissed on motion of the District Attorney, the actions against Earl Adams and Charles Scott having previously been dropped.

By consent of the attorneys, the case against Wilmer Armstrong, the town of Janesville, was adjourned to Sept. 14. Mr. Armstrong has not entered any plea, as yet. Atty. R. C. Bullock of Whitewater represents Armstrong.

William Wall, the man suffering with delirium tremens who was arrested last week, was taken to Burlington Saturday evening by Sheriff Jones and James Wall, who came here to identify him. According to the statements of certain railroad men, Officer Morrissey, Wall may have been the party who has been frightening women of the First Ward in the vicinity of West Bluff and Pearl streets.

Promised to Go to Work
Paddy Mulcaugh and Thomas Conners pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness in municipal court this morning. They were fined $3 and costs, each, but sentences were suspended on their promise to go to work in the country.

"Ghost" Was Small Boy
Officer William Mason has investigated the "ghost" who frightened two young women in the vicinity of the courthouse park and has ascertained that a small boy was responsible for the prank.

Dog at Union House Shot
Chief Appleby and Officer Peter Champion responded to a call from the Union House this forenoon to kill a dog which appeared to be dangerously ill.

Prowlers Frightened Away
About ten o'clock Saturday evening the attention of the officers was called to the fact that two men had been prowling about the residence at 163 Pearl street. Patrolmen Mason and Morrissey were promptly on the scene, but the offenders had made good their escape.

EVANSVILLE READY TODAY

Entry Lists Are Fuller Today Than Ever Before—Promises Better Races This Year.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Evansville, Ind., Aug. 31.—Everything is hustle and bustle here today to make ready for the opening of the county fair tomorrow. Since early morning there has been a constant stream of wagons and people going from the depot to the fair grounds where the exhibits are being arranged.

That there will be good races this year is evidenced by the fact that early this morning there were fifty-three entries, a larger number than ever before and more coming in so that the afternoon programs promise to be indeed interesting.

The sheep and swine departments are already filled and the management has been forced to build additional pens for the swine. In the entire department the exhibit promises to be exceptionally large as several herds which are prize-winners at all the state fairs are already on the grounds. This building has been remodeled somewhat.

The Fine Arts building has also been remodeled and will present a fine appearance when all the exhibits are in place. The attractions hired for the week are all here and are putting in shape for the opening day tomorrow.

The fair opens this year with children's day and the attendance promises to be a record-breaking one. Already everything points to the banner year for the association.

OHIO STATE FAIR OPENS IN COLUMBUS

Exhibits of Agricultural Implements and Fat Stock Very Good.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Columbus, O., Aug. 31.—With prospects most flattering for a successful exhibition, the fifty-eighth annual state fair was inaugurated today and will continue through the week. Everything from racing sleds to fat calves—this does not refer to the ten young women sent parading about the grounds in sleighs today—is included in the elaborate display. The exhibits of machinery, live stock, agricultural and horticultural products are numerous and of a high class.

Many novel educational features have been added to the program, including a students' live stock judging contest, to be participated in by the agricultural students of the Ohio State university. The elaborate racing program, with purses aggregating $10,000, has attracted a large number of the fastest athletes competing over the half-mile tracks this season.

In addition to the racing events many amusement features have been provided by the management.

DEBS TO START ON CAMPAIGN TODAY

The "Red Special" Plans to Go Twice Across the Country Before Election.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, Aug. 31.—The whirlwind campaign trip in which Eugene V. Debs and several of his associates of the socialist party are scheduled to start in a special train from Chicago today bids fair to be the greatest campaign tour that has been undertaken by the presidential candidate since the memorable "swing around the circle" made by William McKinley prior to his first election. If the plans are carried out in full the "Red Special" will cross the country twice, traveling a total distance of about 11,000 miles. The schedule provides for 210 stops for speeches, with meetings each night in cities and large towns.

The completed itinerary calls for this long flight: From Chicago through Iowa to Kansas City, Omaha, Denver, Louisville, Salt Lake, San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Sacramento, Portland, Seattle, Spokane, Butte, Fargo, Minneapolis, Duluth, Detroit, Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, New York city, Sunday, Oct. 4, and a big meeting in the Hippodrome. The New England states will be invaded and then New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee. If time permits the schedule may be lengthened to include Oklahoma, Texas and the southwest.

Tens of thousands of literature will be distributed along the route. Mr. Debs will be the chief orator, but Ben Hanford, candidate for vice-president, and other socialist leaders will be heard. Mother Jones will be carried along as a special attraction during part of the trip.

COLLEGIATE ALUMNAE IN ANNUAL SESSION

National Association of Collegiate Alumnae Meets in San Francisco.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 31.—Many noted college women, delegates to the annual meeting of the National Association of Collegiate Alumnae, registered at the Fairmont hotel today. The business of the gathering will be taken up in earnest tomorrow and continued through the greater part of the week. Aside from the formal sessions, there are to be many excursions and social affairs for the visitors. Among other places they will visit Oakland, Mount Tamalpais, the Lick Observatory, San Jose, Leland Stanford university, the University of California and Mount Hamilton.

Prominent among the women to take part in the sessions are Dr. Susan M. Kingsbury of Simmons college, Dr. Mary Brewster of the University of Missouri, Prof. Emma M. Perkins of Western Reserve university, Prof. Abby Leach of Vassar, Dr. Edith Abbott of Wellesley, Prof. Jessie Pelto of the University of California, Dean Evelyn Wright Allen of Leland Stanford, and Prof. Lucy M. Salmon of Vassar.

HAVE NAMED MAN TO HANDLE THE EAST

Democrats Arrange for Man to Handle their Eastern Business this Fall.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Ridgford, Conn., Aug. 31.—It was learned today that the selection of the eastern manager for the democratic national campaign has been virtually made by national chairman Mack, although the announcement of the choice has not yet been made public. Mack was a guest of Melbert B. Cary yesterday and understood the national and state situation were discussed at some length.

RESULTS OF VERMONT ELECTION ARE WATCHED

Is The First Of State Elections To Be Held This Fall And Comes Tomorrow.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—The first of the state elections to be held this fall comes tomorrow, when Vermont will choose a governor and other state officers, representatives in congress and members of a legislature that will have the choosing of a United States senator. Many politicians and others have been wont to regard the Vermont elections in presidential years as the straw which would tip the scales of the political wind is blowing. They believe that when Vermont casts up a heavy republican majority it is a sure sign that the presidential candidate on the republican ticket is going to sweep the country at the general election to follow.

While the result in the Vermont contest tomorrow doubtless will possess some significance, it is true nevertheless that the value of these early state elections as forecasts of the national election, to follow have long ago been discounted. Twelve years ago the republican candidate for governor of Vermont was elected by a plurality of 34,381; McKinley's plurality the same year was 49,190, and his majority in the electoral college ninety-five. Eight years ago the republican was elected with a margin of 37,212 votes; McKinley's plurality in the state was 29,719, and the electoral college gave him a majority of 137. Four years ago the republican gubernatorial candidate was successful with a plurality of 31,553; Parker lost the state in the November election following by 30,682 votes, and the electoral college by the unprecedented majority of 136. Thus Vermont in her September election in 1904 failed utterly to foreshadow the Roosevelt landslide of less than two months later. There is to be observed a rather close analogy between the plurality the state gives her republican candidate for governor in September and the vote she gives the republican candidate for president in the November following, but astute politicians nowadays are not inclined to attach much value to the results of the Republican elections as a guide to political tendencies in the nation at large.

The campaign in Vermont this year has been one of more than ordinary interest to the people of that state. The legislature to be elected tomorrow will convene in October and will be called upon to deal with several matters of great local interest. One indicates which way the political wind is blowing. A special commission having reported in favor of a number of changes in the methods of assessment and collection. The regulation of automobiles promises to be a burning question, and the protection of the forests will be another important topic of discussion by the lawmakers.

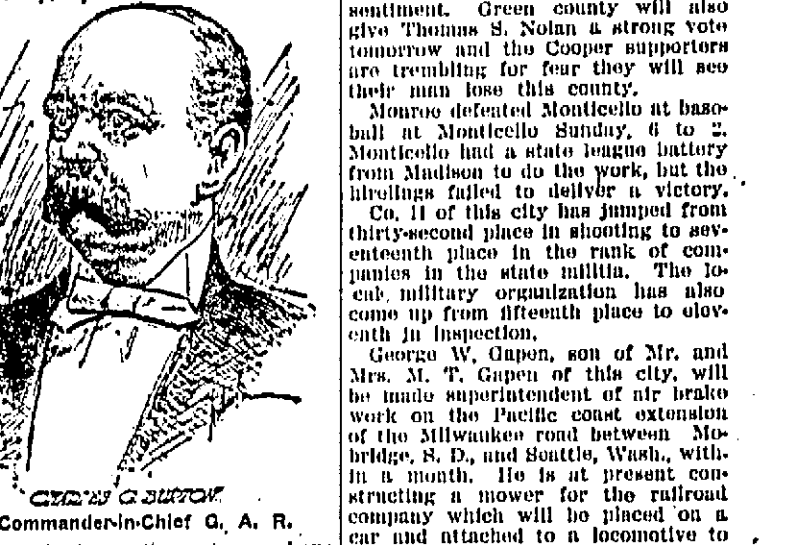

George A. Prouty, the republican candidate for governor, is the present lieutenant governor of the state. While not a radical, he has brought forth several proposals that are of a progressive character and appear to have been well received. James H. Burke, the democratic standard bearer, a former mayor of Burlington, Mr. Burke not only is for enlarged state supervision of public utilities, but is a professed admirer of President Roosevelt.

The Vermont delegation in congress will contain two new faces. A senator will be elected as successor to the late Redfield Proctor, Mr. Stewart now holding the place ad interim by appointment of the governor. There appears to be a strong popular sentiment that the honor should be conferred on ex-Governor Page. In the second congressional district, Kirtredge Hawkins failed of renomination, and Frank Plimley for the republican candidate. His service will not begin until the sixty-third congress convenes, but the legislature will not promptly on the senatorship, and its choice should present his credentials in December.

WAR-TIME COMRADES ARE MEETING AGAIN

More Than Thirty Thousand Persons Already Arrived for G. A. R. Encampment.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Toledo, O., Aug. 31.—More than 30,000 persons had arrived at noon today to attend the forty-second annual national encampment of the G. A. R. and the meetings of the many auxiliary bodies. Several thousand other visitors are on their way and it is believed that the attendance will be equal to that at last year's encampment, notwithstanding the fact that hundreds of the veterans have passed away during the last twelve months. Today was given over chiefly to receptions and reunions. The reunion spirit was predominant. Gray-haired comrades of the 60's met on the streets or found each other sitting side by side in the street cars. And as the old friends met they recalled events of war days and talked of the comrades who had passed away.

For the officers of the various organizations it was a day of preparation to come during the week. The official program does not begin until tomorrow morning and from that time until Saturday night every day will be fully occupied. Aside from the work of the encampment there will be many social functions. The unveiling of the Meigs monument tomorrow and the parade on Wednesday will be two of the big features of the week.

FIRST PRIZES FOR GALBRAITH HORSES

Thirteen Clydesdales From Local Stables Are Making Another Triumphant Tour of State Fairs.

Alex. Galbraith & Son exhibited thirteen of their recently imported Clydesdale horses at the Iowa state fair last week and, as usual, were very successful in securing the leading premiums. They competed in four classes, only, and won no fewer than twelve prizes, including first in each class and second in every class but one. They all carried off the Champion Cup, valued at $100, for the best Clydesdale stallion of any age. This was awarded to their beautiful chestnut, two-year-old colt "Heather Blossom"—one of the best animals ever imported. The Galbraiths also exhibited a string of imported Suffolk Punch stallions and were awarded first, second, and third premiums for this breed.

Alex. Galbraith again acted as judge of the Percherons. As the entries of this breed are always large the task of placing them correctly is exceedingly difficult. The Galbraith horses are being exhibited at the Minnesota state fair this week and are to go from there to the state fair at Milwaukee.

GOVERNMENT HAS MADE NEW RULES

MUTILATED POSTAGE PUT UNDER DAN BY UNCLE SAM.

LETTERS WILL NOW BE HELD

Any Stamp That Has Corners Off Will Not Be Permitted to Carry Mail to Its Destination.

If Janesville people who use the mails to any considerable extent do not watch out closely their letters may be held for postage, that is, if they are.

A new order has gone into effect and should be noted by all who are users of Uncle Sam's service of getting messages transported from place to place. By the terms of the new order a postage stamp which is in any way defaced is now worthless and will not be accepted in payment for the transmission of a letter. Should a corner be torn off, no matter in what way, it cannot longer be used. All letters or packages bearing such stamps will be held at the postoffice for two weeks for recovery and at the end of that period if not claimed they will be sent to the dead letter office at the head of the district on which they are mailed and from there sent to the general dead letter office at Washington.

For some time it has been the custom of the stamp cancelling clerks at the postoffice to pass up a stamp where there has been a small part missing. This has come to the notice of the head of the department and an order has been issued for a rejection of these letters. If they happen to get by the cancelling clerk the one who throws the mail is held responsible and if the letters are sent out a charge will be made back against the office from which the letters are sent.

It is said the government has got next to a scheme which has been tried in places where the stamps which have been cancelled on the extreme edge have been removed from a letter and the cancelled part torn out and then the stamp used again. It is to prevent such plans as this that the new order has been issued stopping the use of stamps which are in any way defaced. If a stamp is torn and a part is missing these should be taken back to the postoffice and turned in the same manner as the unused stamped envelopes.

Uncle Sam Getting More Careful
That the government is getting more strict in some of its rules is shown in the above relative to the use of postage stamps and another evidence of the same nature is shown in its method of handling mutilated or lost currency. The latter is given by the San Francisco Journal which says as follows in this matter:

It is stated that of the $7,500,000 of clearing house certificates issued by the banks of San Francisco, $131,000 are still outstanding. It is probable that a few more thousand dollars will be turned in for redemption, but it is not at all unlikely that a hundred thousand dollars or so of the total issue may share the same experience or fate as that of the money emitted by the government.

Paper money is very destructible, and large amounts of it are constantly being destroyed, of which we never hear, because of an apparent disposition on the part of those who make such laws to provide machinery for detecting contractions of the currency due to that cause. In the case of the clearing house certificate amount has found its way into the possession of collectors, but the greater part of the unredeemed notes have doubtless been lost or destroyed.

It would be interesting to know just how much of the $348,000,000 of legal tender currency of the government which is still in existence. The reports of destruction since the date when Congress stopped the process of contraction by fixing the amount supposed to be in circulation at the above figure must be very great. Some have ventured to estimate it as not less than $100,000,000.

There has also been an enormous loss of silver and gold certificates, no one can tell how much; and singularly enough no one in authority in Washington seems to be at all curious concerning the amount. And yet there is good reason why curiosity should be manifested.

There is no sense in stating in our treasury reports that there are $348,000,000 of legal tenders outstanding when it would be easy to ascertain that the amount. And yet there is good reason why curiosity should be manifested.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

In announcing myself as a candidate for the republican nomination for county treasurer for Rock county at the primaries, Sept. 1st, 1908, I will say that I was born in Rock county in 1862; have lived on a farm in the Town of Janesville for the past 27 years; served as town treasurer for four years; have conducted my own business successfully, and feel competent to fulfill the duties pertaining to this office if nominated and elected and respectfully ask for the support of the voters of Rock county.

KICKER'S KOLUM

What has become of the "Janesville Kicker" project? Has it gone glimmering away as usual? What's the matter with restoring the old water to their original purpose, an unobstructed and safe passageway for pedestrians. In this connection I might put in a word for our brothers who are deprived of their eyesight. I would suggest that the parties who are responsible for these abuses, be blindfolded given a little stick such as the blind use for a "feeler", and then be compelled to walk along the sidewalk in the business section. No shin pads to be allowed, and no assistance be given when the walkers run into so many different things of different shapes and sizes that they can't tell whether they are out in the open or in the warren of a shoe store or grocery. How much easier it would be if the parties who are responsible were kept in the store, where they belong, instead of eating, drinking and smoking on the sidewalk and crowding the sidewalkers so that people who are in a hurry have to step out into the driveway in order to get along. Do you know that disease and death often lie in these germ laden fruits and vegetables? To display these things on the street is a cheap and reprehensible way of advertising, and it is an unhygienic practice as well. In the half civilized cities of the far east one is not surprised to see "the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker" playing their vociferous and disgusting music on the street to draw the public there, but in this twentieth century town of Janesville it should be different. If nothing else will arouse these vendors of filth to eat, why not try the pure food law on them? If a grocer sells me food stuff that is mixed with excrement and other chemicals from the dusty streets, can't I get the law on him? If a man spits on the sidewalk he is liable to a fine. He may be a connoisseur or a sufferer from some other disease which is highly contagious through the dried sputum floating in the air in the form of dust, but he is permitted to expectorate on the driveway and the disease laden dust is whirled in the air by passing vehicles and deposited upon the things we eat and wear. When you awake in the morning with a "dark brown taste" in your mouth and begin wondering what you had for supper that produced such an effect, think also of the street sweeper which came along while you were taking the deep inspirations of sound, refreshing slumber, and sent a cloud of dust through your open window and down into your lungs and some to swallow besides. I have watched these clouds of dust passing into third story windows. The traveller taking the interurban car at the waiting room is immediately started in the face by a lot of empty oil barrels and open trash barrels and divers other things which the sidewalk also has a bill board which too often displays hideous posters, and "the stranger within our gates," wonders.

Dr. J. B. Bradley is a comparatively unknown quantity. His home is at Eaton Rapids and every inhabitant of miles around will tell you that he is a good doctor and a good citizen. Practically he has held the position of auditor-general of this state for the past ten years. He knows the facts and figures connected with the financial condition of the state better than any one else. He can stand in front of a group of farmers and quote numbers so fast that they forget all about milking time in their efforts to figure up how much they will save in taxes by voting for Bradley. His campaign reminds one of the bookkeeper who thought he knew all about running a business just because he kept the books that showed how well the manager was doing.

Many voters are against the third term more than they are against Warner. Others have an honest conviction that he should be returned to office in order that he may carry out several sensible reforms that he tried to effect during the last session of the legislature. By advocating these reforms he has incurred the displeasure of the old machine that elected him and which is now doing everything it can to defeat him. The machine is now working for Bradley, not because Bradley is a machine man, but because the machine want a victory for Warner. Back of the machine there are several large corporation interests, including the railroads, telephone and telegraph companies and the breweries. They are afraid of a compromise between corporation and public that is fair and rational. They are backing Bradley because they think that his two-year term of office will be up before the country practitioner will learn the ropes well enough to do them any damage with his promised reforms.

Mayor Heddlies in Detroit
This city has grown so accustomed to the presence of notables, both foreign and domestic, that it recently overlooked a chance to offer an ovation to a man of considerable importance in the political arena. Last Friday, just as I was leaving the Press building, I ran plump into a short, solid individual crowned with a wig, and wearing a top hat. I said in my best politeness, "How are you, Mr. Heddlies?" and he replied, "I am well, thank you. I am here on a couple of seconds' stop, replying, suspecting apparently that this was but a prelude to the attempted sale of the Ponce de Leon hotel (where he is stopping) or the Detroit river tunnel.

"I thought I might be a good idea to introduce Mayor Heddlies to Mayor Thompson, but the hour was late, and besides, the meeting could not be productive of much good. Looking at the ever-jolly Heddlies and then at the careworn Thompson, one would say that being mayor of Janesville is better for the health and spirits than being mayor of Detroit.

While speaking of politics it might be well to mention that the first district in Wisconsin now has the chance to send a man down to Washington who will reflect some credit upon the state. Thomas S. Nolan is the type of man we want for our lawmakers. He will do something. Even his enemy, who is a successful man does not have them; will admit that he is a hard, but square, fighter. He has been doing that all his life. At one time he was in the news-paper publishing business out in Platte, S. D. The town was run wide open. Nolan stood with a majority of the citizens for law and decency. He attacked the saloons and dens of vice. The "bad" men threatened to do the job. Nolan looked "easy." He was young and slight of build. The "bad" men entered the one-story shack where the paper was published and announced his intention of closing out the place. He never got much beyond the door. Afterward he declared that three wildcats had jumped upon him at once, given him a black eye, torn off his clothes and kicked him into the street. The paper came out that night as usual.

Thomas S. Nolan is a lawyer and man of large business affairs and has gained some pretty sound ideas of what this country and its communities need in the way of law-making. He is also a man who is not afraid to stand up in meeting and say what he believes. If he is sent down to Washington he will do something more than lose himself in the crowd that follows the ball-sweep.

TWO BIG PICNICS
IN NEAR FUTURE

Spanish War Veterans Will Have Outing at Hononegah on Labor Day—Musicians Gather at Yost's Sept. 13.

Hans G. Jocke made a trip yesterday to Hononegah park where he made arrangements for the big picnic of the United Spanish American War Veterans Camps from Janesville, Beloit, and Rockford, which is to occur on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 7. Each of the Camps expects to send a full quota and besides the drills and field events there will be a baseball game between Janesville and Beloit, Rockford to play the winner.

Musicians' Picnic Sept. 13.
At a meeting of band and orchestra men in Beloit, yesterday, final arrangements were made for the big musical picnic which is to be held at Yost's park on Sunday, Sept. 13. The festival of the Janesville, Rockford, Beloit, and Freeport musical organizations and bands and orchestras from twenty-five other towns and cities in Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois will be invited. There will be big band and orchestra concerts in the afternoon, and programs of musical numbers have been drawn up and will be sent to each of the organizations urged to be present. George Hatch, the local representative at the Beloit meeting, predicts that the mass band feature will contain over 200 pieces and that the festival is destined to become one of the biggest annual events in this section of the country. The "old timers" are expected and a holders' contest for a prize will be one of the events of the day. Baseball games and other athletic events are also to be arranged. There is to be no charge at the gate and the general public will be welcome.

Myrtle Workers' Good Time.
Myrtle Workers from Beloit and Janesville enjoyed a big joint picnic at Yost's park on Saturday. The program of games and contests was unusually interesting and the team and fat men and boys' and girls' foot races, tug of war, and largest family contests aroused much enthusiasm and were keenly enjoyed by the crowd.

Odd Fellows' Labor Day Outing
The two Janesville lodges of Odd Fellows are to hold a picnic at Crystal Springs park on Labor Day and arrangements are now in progress.

One purpose of the gathering is to start a fund to help defray the expenses of entertaining the Grand Lodge in Janesville next June.

THREE LOST LIVES
AT DELAVAN LAKE

Collision of Steamer "Lake Delavan" With Row Boat Caused Terrible Sunday Tragedy.

Mrs. Anderson, wife of a wealthy and prominent Chicago contractor, and two of her children were drowned in Delavan Lake yesterday afternoon. The row boat in which they were fellow-passengers with a third child, a brother of Mrs. Anderson, and a maid, was run down by the steamer "Lake Delavan" and only the three last named were saved. The head of the household was in Chicago at the time of the terrible catastrophe occurred. According to reports this morning the bodies had not been recovered.

W. B. DAVIS FOR REGISTER OF DEEDS
I wish to announce that in addition to being Town Clerk I am chairman of the Republican Town Committee, showing that the people of my town have absolute confidence in my ability.

KICKER'S KOLUM

What has become of the "Janesville Kicker" project? Has it gone glimmering away as usual? What's the matter with restoring the old water to their original purpose, an unobstructed and safe passageway for pedestrians. In this connection I might put in a word for our brothers who are deprived of their eyesight. I would suggest that the parties who are responsible for these abuses, be blindfolded given a little stick such as the blind use for a "feeler", and then be compelled to walk along the sidewalk in the business section. No shin pads to be allowed, and no assistance be given when the walkers run into so many different things of different shapes and sizes that they can't tell whether they are out in the open or in the warren of a shoe store or grocery. How much easier it would be if the parties who are responsible were kept in the store, where they belong, instead of eating, drinking and smoking on the sidewalk and crowding the sidewalkers so that people who are in a hurry have to step out into the driveway in order to get along. Do you know that disease and death often lie in these germ laden fruits and vegetables? To display these things on the street is a cheap and reprehensible way of advertising, and it is an unhygienic practice as well. In the half civilized cities of the far east one is not surprised to see "the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker" playing their vociferous and disgusting music on the street to draw the public there, but in this twentieth century town of Janesville it should be different. If nothing else will arouse these vendors of filth to eat, why not try the pure food law on them? If a grocer sells me food stuff that is mixed with excrement and other chemicals from the dusty streets, can't I get the law on him? If a man spits on the sidewalk he is liable to a fine. He may be a connoisseur or a sufferer from some other disease which is highly contagious through the dried sputum floating in the air in the form of dust, but he is permitted to expectorate on the driveway and the disease laden dust is whirled in the air by passing vehicles and deposited upon the things we eat and wear. When you awake in the morning with a "dark brown taste" in your mouth and begin wondering what you had for supper that produced such an effect, think also of the street sweeper which came along while you were taking the deep inspirations of sound, refreshing slumber, and sent a cloud of dust through your open window and down into your lungs and some to swallow besides. I have watched these clouds of dust passing into third story windows. The traveller taking the interurban car at the waiting room is immediately started in the face by a lot of empty oil barrels and open trash barrels and divers other things which the sidewalk also has a bill board which too often displays hideous posters, and "the stranger within our gates," wonders.

Dr. J. B. Bradley is a comparatively unknown quantity. His home is at Eaton Rapids and every inhabitant of miles around will tell you that he is a good doctor and a good citizen. Practically he has held the position of auditor-general of this state for the past ten years. He knows the facts and figures connected with the financial condition of the state better than any one else. He can stand in front of a group of farmers and quote numbers so fast that they forget all about milking time in their efforts to figure up how much they will save in taxes by voting for Bradley. His campaign reminds one of the bookkeeper who thought he knew all about running a business just because he kept the books that showed how well the manager was doing.

Many voters are against the third term more than they are against Warner. Others have an honest conviction that he should be returned to office in order that he may carry out several sensible reforms that he tried to effect during the last session of the legislature. By advocating these reforms he has incurred the displeasure of the old machine that elected him and which is now doing everything it can to defeat him. The machine is now working for Bradley, not because Bradley is a machine man, but because the machine want a victory for Warner. Back of the machine there are several large corporation interests, including the railroads, telephone and telegraph companies and the breweries. They are afraid of a compromise between corporation and public that is fair and rational. They are backing Bradley because they think that his two-year term of office will be up before the country practitioner will learn the ropes well enough to do them any damage with his promised reforms.

Mayor Heddlies in Detroit
This city has grown so accustomed to the presence of notables, both foreign and domestic, that it recently overlooked a chance to offer an ovation to a man of considerable importance in the political arena. Last Friday, just as I was leaving the Press building, I ran plump into a short, solid individual crowned with a wig, and wearing a top hat. I said in my best politeness, "How are you, Mr. Heddlies?" and he replied, "I am well, thank you. I am here on a couple of seconds' stop, replying, suspecting apparently that this was but a prelude to the attempted sale of the Ponce de Leon hotel (where he is stopping) or the Detroit river tunnel.

"I thought I might be a good idea to introduce Mayor Heddlies to Mayor Thompson, but the hour was late, and besides, the meeting could not be productive of much good. Looking at the ever-jolly Heddlies and then at the careworn Thompson, one would say that being mayor of Janesville is better for the health and spirits than being mayor of Detroit.

While speaking of politics it might be well to mention that the first district in Wisconsin now has the chance to send a man down to Washington who will reflect some credit upon the state. Thomas S. Nolan is the type of man we want for our lawmakers. He will do something. Even his enemy, who is a successful man does not have them; will admit that he is a hard, but square, fighter. He has been doing that all his life. At one time he was in the news-paper publishing business out in Platte, S. D. The town was run wide open. Nolan stood with a majority of the citizens for law and decency. He attacked the saloons and dens of vice. The "bad" men threatened to do the job. Nolan looked "easy." He was young and slight of build. The "bad" men entered the one-story shack where the paper was published and announced his intention of closing out the place. He never got much beyond the door. Afterward he declared that three wildcats had jumped upon him at once, given him a black eye, torn off his clothes and kicked him into the street. The paper came out that night as usual.

Thomas S. Nolan is a lawyer and man of large business affairs and has gained some pretty sound ideas of what this country and its communities need in the way of law-making. He is also a man who is not afraid to stand up in meeting and say what he believes. If he is sent down to Washington he will do something more than lose himself in the crowd that follows the ball-sweep.

BOTH THE PARTIES WATCH VERMONT

ELECTION RESULTS TUESDAY
CONSIDERED IMPORTANT.

DANGER LIES IN APATHY

Hitchcock Wants Lively Campaign in East and Mack Seeks Manager for Fight in That District.

New York, Aug. 31.—The outcome of the election Tuesday in Vermont is awaited with keen interest at the headquarters of the Republican and Democratic national committees in this city. The showing made in this state in the matter of the number of voters who go to the polls and the gains or losses to either party in comparison with the vote of four years ago will influence in no small degree the shaping of the campaign in all of the eastern states.

It is conceded that the Republican party will win, but if the plurality is reduced by reason of Republican apathy then it will stir that party in the east to renewed energy in trying to arouse enthusiasm and interest.

Hitchcock Fighting Apathy.

Overconfidence on the part of Republicans in the east is the thing which the managers of the national campaign are trying to guard against. Chairman Hitchcock has found a disposition on the part of eastern state managers of the Republican campaign to claim everything and advise that the real work be done in western states.

To a large extent Mr. Hitchcock shares this view, but at the same time has urged that there be no let up in the vigor of the eastern campaign. Senator Hale of Maine, Charles F. Brooks of Connecticut, Senator Crane of Massachusetts and a number of others prominent in national Republican councils, have advised that just as earnest work be done by the national committee in the eastern states as though every state were regarded as in doubt. President Roosevelt is reported to have told the officials of the congressional campaign committee who called on him at Oyster Bay a few days ago that the way to prevent political apathy from getting a hold on the voters is to keep it out of political headquarters. It is likely, therefore, that the campaign in the east will be every bit as brisk as in western states where it is known that the race will be close.

Speaking Begins in Two Weeks.

The speaking campaign throughout the entire country will open about September 15, and from that time on political rallies will, closely follow each other in every state where there is the slightest doubt as to the result.

Another test of sentiment will come with the Maine election on September 15. The speaking campaign there has been going on for more than a week and great interest has been shown. The Republicans do not expect to get as large a plurality as they did four years ago, but are struggling to secure from 12,000 to 15,000, which the state Republican leaders term their normal plurality.

Problem for Chairman Mack.

While scores besiege headquarters daily and press their claims for positions to aid the party, Norman M. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee, finds himself searching for a chairman of the sub-committee to run the Democratic campaign in the east, and he has been hunting for nearly a month. Many have been considered but none chosen, and Mr. Mack declared that while he hoped to make a selection this week, he did not know who would be chosen.

The selection of an eastern Democratic campaign manager has been threatened over frequently in the party councils in the west and Mr. Bryan was called upon for a suggestion. After much consideration it was deemed best that an eastern man, preferably from New York, be chosen. National committeemen conferring with Chairman Mack agreed that the eastern manager must be a man who had never been prominently identified with any previous faction in the party and one who could hold together any opposing factions now existing in the east.

Bryan on Another Tour.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 31.—William J. Bryan started Sunday on another speech-making tour. Monday he speaks at the fair grounds in St. Paul, Minn., his remarks dealing with the subject of governmental extravagance. Three other speeches will be delivered before he returns here Thursday. These will be at Fargo and Grand Forks, N. D., and Sioux City, Ia.

Stockmen Killed in Collision.

Valentine, Neb., Aug. 31.—George Kennedy and Foster Spear were killed outright; Malcolm N. Hawkins fatally injured and F. B. Brower received dangerous wounds as the result of a head-on collision between two Chicago & Northwestern freight trains at Kikore Monday. All were stockmen of Norwood, Wyo.

Woman Drowned at Hardin, Ill.

Hardin, Ill., Aug. 31.—A skiff containing five persons was run down and cut in two Sunday night in the Illinois river by the yacht Mayflower, and Mrs. May Appleman of Alton was drowned.

ASSASSIN A STARVING ROBBER.

So Says Mrs. Williams of Man Who Shot Roberts.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 31.—Mrs. W. S. G. Williams is at her country residence in Long Green Valley, Baltimore county, having arrived there Sunday. This is the only actual fact in the day's Baltimore history of the investigation into the shooting last Wednesday night on the boardwalk at Atlantic City of Charles B. Roberts, Jr., of this city, upon which occasion he was taking a ride in a wheel chair with Mrs. Williams. Mrs. Williams said: "It is utterly ridiculous to say that anyone but a robber shot Mr. Roberts, and I am surprised that the police are continuing to follow up the case on any other theory. The man could not have been anything else but one wanting money. He was a starving man. I had the opportunity to see him well and the clothes he wore and his whole appearance proved what he was. He was a poor, wretched, ignorant man, who wanted money and supposed that if he held us up Mr. Roberts would give it to him."

BANK ROBBED OF SMALL SUM.

Woman Sees Burglars Working, But Fright Keeps Her Silent.

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 31.—The Bank of Easton, at Easton, Mo., about 12 miles east of St. Joseph, was robbed early Sunday morning of $150, the funds belonging to the post office. The money was between the outer and inner doors of the vault, and the robbers were frightened by daylight before securing the bank's funds. The vault was wrecked and a large hole blown in the floor.

The four men who committed the robbery were seen at their work for two hours by Mrs. A. Marshall, from across the street, but she was too frightened to give the alarm. They drove away in a carriage toward St. Joseph. They are believed to be the same men who robbed the bank at Rushville, Mo., last Wednesday, for whom a reward of $5,000 has been offered.

Doukhorob Lands Thrown Open.

Winthrop, Minn., Aug. 31.—In the province of Alberta and Saskatchewan there will be a great rush for land Tuesday morning. All the Doukhorob lands on which these foreigners refused to perform homestead duties, thousands of acres in extent, will be thrown open to settlement, besides which the new pre-emption law passed at the last session of parliament goes into effect.

BLUE SUNDAY IN ATLANTIC CITY

EVERY SALOON AND HOTEL BAR IS CLOSED UP TIGHT.

RESULT OF FORT'S THREAT

Liquor Sellers Heed the Governor's
Warning, Though It Costs Them
About $150,000—Cafes Are Deserted.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 31.—A real blue Sunday came to Atlantic City. Many persons familiar with the history of this far-famed resort had been inclined to doubt the possibility of such a thing, but everyone of the 220 saloons and hotel bars was closed. They were closed alike to bona fide guests as well as to strangers, just arrived within the gates.

It is said that this was the fourth time in the 54 years of its existence that a drinkless day had been experienced in Atlantic City. A bulletin posted at police headquarters Sunday afternoon stated:

"Saloons all closed. No troops in town."

Another bulletin, officially signed by the chief of police, consisted of a card on which was printed:

"In 1861 it was held the fort. Today it is Fort holds you."

Fort's Threat Has Effect.

Gov. Fort's proclamation containing his threat to send troops to the seashore resort in the event of a further violation of the Sunday closing law had its effect. Saloonkeepers and hotel men reluctantly accepted the advice of the mayor and of the more conservative members of the saloon men's organization, and closed their places of business as tightly as they know how. Screens came tumbling down Saturday midnight and remained down all day.

Boardwalk cafes that on Sundays past have been thronged to their utmost capacity serving liquors and food were all but deserted. A visit during the height of the afternoon crush on the boardwalk to one of the most widely-known cafes facing the famous oceanfront disclosed the fact that not a single patron was in the place. The proprietors declared that the loss of the drink privilege had carried with it a nearly equal loss in the sale of foodstuffs.

Smaller Crowd of Visitors.

There was a decided decrease in the size of the visiting throng, though many persons came from Philadelphia and New York out of sheer curiosity to see what Atlantic City, the playground of the cities, looked like on a dry Sunday. The weather was well ahead ideal and ordinarily, the inn keepers declared, they would have had their facilities taxed to handle the crowd. The closing down of the saloons undoubtedly kept away many thousands of regular Sunday visitors from nearby places. The majority of the boardwalk multitude here, however, seemed not to mind the change of conditions and enjoyed themselves in other ways.

A spokesman for the affected liquor interests, and one of the local political leaders declared that the loss from closing would amount approximately to $150,000. He declared that the saloons would close every Sunday hereafter until some warrant of law will permit of their remaining open. "We will appeal to the legislature when it meets in January, and have hope of securing some sort of relief," he said.

Old Man Arrested as Rioter.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 31.—Edward Forrie, 60 years old, was arrested Sunday on suspicion that he was connected with the recent riot which resulted in the lynching of two negroes. The police found in Forrie's room silverware on which was engraved the name of H. T. Loper, whose restaurant was wrecked by a mob. Forrie says he is from Mexico, Ill., that he is a journalist, that he came here to write stories.

BIG FIRE IN NEW ORLEANS

LOSS IS BETWEEN ONE AND TWO MILLION DOLLARS.

Firemen at Annual Picnic and Water
Supply Short—Large Wholesale House Burned.

New Orleans, Aug. 31.—Fire which broke out in the center of the commercial district Sunday afternoon swept over portions of three blocks, destroying a large number of wholesale houses, manufacturing plants and small stores. Originating at Bienville and Chartres streets, the flames worked their way north as far as Conti street, and west towards Royal, bringing about a loss of between one and two million dollars before they were finally subdued.

Several circumstances combined to give the fire a headway which proved hard to overcome. At the time the alarm was turned in, shortly before three o'clock, the New Orleans firemen were in the midst of their annual picnic at a suburban park, and the engines and patrols responded with a mere handful of men. It was fully an hour before the department was in a position to make anything like a successful fight against the fire, and then the handicap against it was added to by an inadequate supply of water.

The fire was one of the most spectacular that has occurred in New Orleans during recent years. Two warehouses, filled with wine and liquors, were among the buildings destroyed by the fire. As they burned the barrels of whisky and brandy exploded with thunderous roars, which could be heard for blocks and which shook the walls of adjoining buildings and endangered the lives of firemen engaged in battling the flames.

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 31.—Fire almost completely destroyed Darby, a town of about 1,000 inhabitants in the Hitter Root valley. The town had no fire department. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

MISSING WOMAN FOUND DEAD.

Man Arrested for Murder of Mrs. Donahue of Oakland.

San Francisco, Aug. 31.—The badly decomposed body of Mrs. Alice L. Donahue of Oakland, who disappeared from her home June 1 last, was found in the vicinity of her home. She had been arrested by the police on the charge of murder. A dog owned by Frank Walsh crawled under the Western Furniture company's factory on Sixty-fourth street, near the bay in Emeryville. In digging away the ground that the dog might more easily come out, Walsh found a white cat about. He at once notified the superintendent of the factory, and further search brought forth a waist, under which was found a woman's hat. Near them was found a shovel covered with clay. The clothing was afterward identified as that of Mrs. Donahue, and a search was then begun by the police for the body.

Mrs. Donahue was a prominent fraternal woman, about 40 years old and was in poor health.

The evidence upon which Alford was arrested consisted of a brooch in his possession, which he claimed to have found in a neighbor's yard.

GEN. A. P. STEWART IS DEAD.

Distinguished Confederate Veteran
Passes Away at Biloxi.

Biloxi, Miss., Aug. 31.—Gen. Alexander P. Stewart, one of the last two surviving lieutenant generals of the confederate army, died at his home here Sunday. Although he was in his eighty-seventh year and suffering from the infirmities of old age, his death was sudden.

Like the Lees, Gen. Stewart, after the close of hostilities between the states, gave himself up to the instruction of southern youth and served from 1874 to 1886 as chancellor of the University of Mississippi. In 1890 he was appointed one of the commissioners of the Chickasaw national park and kept there until he moved to Biloxi.

Effect he made his home at Chattanooga.

HANGS HIMSELF IN JAIL.

Farmer Who Slew Wife and Shot Son
Commits Suicide.

Clay City, Ill., Aug. 31.—Inmate as the result of having slain his wife and fatally wounded his son in error, Julius Turner, a farmer, committed suicide in the county jail Sunday night. He hanged himself with the sheets from his cot.

The shooting of Mrs. Turner and her son occurred on June 23. The murder was the result of insane jealousy on the part of her husband. The son was mistaken for a rival and he and his mother were shot while they were standing in the dark just outside the village church.

Anarchy Rules in Persia.

Tehran, Aug. 31.—Latest advices received here indicate that all the provinces are in a state of anarchy and that the country is on the eve of a civil war. Ward has reached here from Nudien that a party of liberal Musulmans has started for Persia to proclaim a holy war against the shah among the Djat population.

Woman Robbed and Slain.

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 31.—Mrs. Martha Newburn, a white woman of Wetumpka, Miss., was killed and $100 known to have been concealed in her stocking was taken by her slayer. Mike Mast, a member of the fishing party to which Mrs. Newburn belonged, is missing.

MR. TAFT BEGINS FISHING.

Winding Up His Vacation on Middle Bass Island.

Middle Bass Island, O., Aug. 31.—William H. Taft and party arrived at the Middle Bass club at four o'clock Sunday morning. After a five-hour sleep the candidate breakfasted and later attended services in the little chapel. He rested throughout the remainder of the day, and on Monday began fishing.

While the week on the fishing grounds is primarily for recreation, it is understood several political conferences may be held. Representative J. Warren Kellar of Ohio is at the club. On Wednesday Mr. Taft will go to Toledo to address the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic. This speech will not be political.

Race War Narrowly Averted.

Parsons, Kan., Aug. 31.—A race war was narrowly averted in this city Sunday when Policeman John Williams shot and killed Matt Matthews, a negro. After the killing the negroes began to gather in Greenwood park and plan vengeance against the police and city officials. The better class of the negroes at once took the affair in charge and dissuaded the leaders from any rash action and the mob was dispersed without trouble.

Dies Leaving $20,000,000 Estate.

New York, Aug. 31.—A dispatch from Oswego, N. Y., announces the death there by apoplexy Sunday of Frederick C. Hewitt, a retired banker and a Yale graduate of the class of 1858. He was 69 years old and a bachelor, and leaves an estate valued at $20,000,000.

The Cup That Exactly Suited You

Somewhere, sometime back in the last five years you have had a cup of coffee that was just right. It is probable that if you had inquired you would have found that the lady who made it knew how to make good coffee, but it is more probable that she had good coffee to make it from. It is more than likely that she used Golden Blend, because Golden Blend is used in at least one-third of all the homes in Janesville, and because Golden Blend is a blend that fully satisfies 9-10th of all the people. This blend is the result of years of experience in the handling and study of coffee. It is not particularly a strong coffee, neither is it particularly mild, but is of smooth flavor characteristic of the South American coffees, from which the base of Golden Blend is made, and is of a delightful aroma. Fully twenty per cent of my present customers have used Golden Blend continuously for the past six years. Fully twenty-five per cent of all the homes in Janesville now use Golden Blend. These two facts stand as mute testimony of its quality. If you have not used Golden Blend and will try a pound upon my recommendation, and if Golden Blend does not exactly suit your taste, I will blend specially for you. I will make it milder or stronger, more smooth or more of an acid flavor. I will blend in one-half pound lots until I have suited your taste, and give you the coffee free. Then your coffee troubles will be over for all time to come. This is an age in which the specialist succeeds. I am a coffee specialist, and with this offer before you there is no reason why any woman should not have just the coffee she wants.

Which would you rather have?—"Factory-cooked" beans that have been put in a soldered can, raw, and then cooked in the can, or HEINZ Baked Beans that had been baked the home way in a slow oven of uniform heat, and then hermetically sealed without solder in a specially prepared tin that is sterilized before and after filling.

HEINZ Baked Beans

look better and taste better because they are baked the right way—the only way. From the growing of the fine, plump beans to the labeling of HEINZ Improved Tins, each process is distinctly "HEINZ."

Three ways: With Tomato Sauce; Plain Pork and Beans (Boston Style); Vegetarian—Without Pork.

Thirty thousand visitors every year see HEINZ Baked Beans put in the tins hot from the oven, after having been thoroughly baked.

Prices 10c, 15c and 20c a tin, according to size.

Roosevelt's Emphatic Approval of the Currency Bill.

Senator Stephenson voted for it and Congressman Cooper against it.
Oyster Bay, New York, August 29.
"Beyond all question the emergency currency bill was a good measure, and I have not heard it attacked with any arguments which I thought even deserved an answer. It is obviously only an emergency measure. It lasts merely the length of time to permit us to develop a permanent plan; but during that time, it makes provision for the needed elasticity of currency, and it does it in an utterly unobjectionable manner."

"There is literally not one objection that has been raised to it worthy of paying the slightest heed to."
(Signed)
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

WHAT THE SCHEME IS

There can be no doubt whatever that the Bryan scheme, put by him in the democratic platform, of a government guarantee of bank deposits is spreading rapidly, especially in the west and southwest. It is a very plausible and seductive proposition. It is advocated by many honest and sincere men. Unfortunately they have not yet discovered, as they will eventually, the essentially dishonest nature of the scheme.

The proposed guarantee of bank deposits is:

1. A plan to tax sound banks for the benefit of the depositors in dishonest and weak banks.
2. It therefore contains the essential political monstrosity of taxation without representation inasmuch as the tax is upon sound banks which will have no representation in or control over weak banks.
3. It is a plan which must either result in further concentration in banking, leading finally to monopoly, or else result in widespread banking demoralization, ending in bankruptcy.
4. It is of a socialistic nature in that it seeks to relieve the individual of responsibilities which he should assume himself, and to throw these responsibilities upon others.
5. Intended to prevent panic it would ultimately result in panic, and a panic of a most disastrous character.
6. It is in its essence a scheme to compel the rich banks of New York and the east to pay the banking losses of the rest of the country. The New England and middle states will have to pay the bulk of the tax and assume most of the ultimate responsibility for loss. It is as radically vicious and wrong as the Bryan free silver proposition of 1896.

WEATHER AND THE MARKETS

The concluding week of August has developed so marked a decline in temperature over a greater portion of the country and so heavy a rainfall over the eastern portion as to introduce a new factor into the entire business situation. The fall of temperature not only arrests the growth of late crops, such as corn, but also intensifies the fear of frosts in its influence upon cotton and corn. The heavy rainfall has done enough damage to the cotton crop to arrest the downward tendency of prices owing to exceptional prospects. The southeastern railroads have suffered unusual damages.

This change in the weather of a midsummer week has immediate effects upon the retail demand for apparel of all kinds. It may also precipitate an early return of vacationists to their homes, and thus cut short the period during which hotels do an active business. It may be safely said that such a spell of weather turns the face of the people from summer to autumn, from the past to the future, and influences business in the various ways affected by the change. The railroads, the wholesale and the retail trades, and in due time manufacturing, instinctively feel the effects of this turn in the tide of summer.

STEPHENSON'S VOTE

There is apparently no question but that Isaac Stephenson will receive the nomination for United States senator on the republican ticket; the only question is how large it will be. Let Rock county do its best tomorrow and give him a round majority that will place beyond question the county's attitude on the question. Mr. Stephenson deserves the re-nomination and will receive it. His life's work as a republican should be recognized and Governor Hoard's argument: "Do not change horses in the middle of the stream. Such a step would be tantamount to Wisconsin," should be heeded. When you vote tomorrow make a cross after Stephenson's name and feel that you have honored a worthy of your honor.

NOLAN WILL WIN

Thomas S. Nolan will be the next congressman from the first congressional district unless all pre-primary signs fail. Within the past two days the attitude of the voters throughout the district has changed markedly for the Rock county candidate.

The nomination is certain and to make it even more certain he should receive the hearty support of his local citizens of Janesville and Rock county.

Mr. Nolan will go to congress as a republican representative of the first congressional district, will attend the republican caucus and vote with the republicans on important measures of national importance. Vote for Nolan tomorrow and be certain in doing so you will send a republican to congress to represent your interests who is not tainted with Bryanism and other democratic fallacies.

FIRST ASSEMBLY DISTRICT

In the first assembly district the fight for the assembly nomination is most bitter. Mr. Whittelet has been beset with statements that are distorted for campaign purposes. His record as a man and a citizen has been assailed in a manner befitting slanders rather than an enlightened district. In nominating Mr. Whittelet the voters of the first district will not make any mistake and his majority should be large enough not to leave a question of a doubt as to their disapproval of unfair tactics in campaigning for legislative offices.

After tomorrow the defeated candidates can go back and sit down and count up how much it cost them in cash and time to learn they were not desired by the voters.

Grant Fisher's nomination in the second assembly district is not in doubt, but voters are urged to remember that he is on the ticket and cast their vote for him.

John M. Whitehead's nomination as state senator is a matter of congratulation to the voters of the county who demonstrated rare judgment in naming him for re-nomination.

Vote for Nolan tomorrow and in doing so know that you are voting for a man who will ably represent you in congress.

PRESS COMMENT.

And All's Well.

How Bryan's Paper Pays.
New Richmond News: But the democrats have one good thing to draw on. Up to date $5,000 has been turned into the national campaign fund, as the profits on subscriptions to the Commoner, which keeps right on getting commoner and commoner.

Democrats' Tame Contest.
Madison Journal: Wisconsin democrats are not very much excited. Nothing has been laid up against M. A. Hoyt, candidate for United States senator, while the most said of Neil Brown is that he has off and on been a legislative lobbyist.

Dublin Better Take Care.
El Paso Herald: Isn't the lord mayor of Dublin taking a great risk to grant Richard Croker the "freedom of the city"? Perhaps the lord mayor doesn't know Croker's record in Gotham. Croker left Manhattan in 1890 when he went abroad to live, but that is because he was nailed down.

Chaffin's Skyscraping "If".
Sheboygan Journal "If I am elected and inaugurated president on March 4 next, I will call a special session of congress and have the liquor traffic legislated out of existence," said E. W. Chaffin, prohibition candidate, yesterday. Mr. Chaffin's "if" however is one-forty-two stories high and covers an area equal to about ninety-seven city blocks.

Straw Hat Ban Foolishness.
Evening Wisconsin: Those who are beginning to shag a farewell to the straw hat should not forget that September generally includes days which vie with the most uncomfortable days of August. Fashion's dictates are disregarded by sensible men who, like the miller who wears a white hat to keep his head warm, will cling to their straw hats while the hot weather lasts, to keep their heads cool.

MELBOURNE'S ARMS OPEN
ADMIRAL SPERRY FORMALLY WELCOMED TO CITY.
Official Landing Day for the American Fleet—Crews March to Church on Sunday.

Melbourne, Aug. 31.—Monday was official landing day for the American fleet and Admiral Sperry and the officers of the battleships came ashore formally, in full regalia, and were formally welcomed by the federal and city officials.

Admiral Sperry expressed himself as highly appreciative of the warm welcome extended to himself and the men under him, and the kindly greeting of the Australians, both at Sydney and at Melbourne, has developed a feeling of gratification throughout the fleet.

Sunday was set down on the program as a "free day," nothing in the way of formal entertainments having been arranged for the visitors, but nevertheless those who came ashore from the warships managed to spend some enjoyable hours driving and sightseeing. Seventeen military trains arrived Sunday morning from the various centers throughout the country, bringing into Melbourne a large body of cavalry, which will participate in the grand review on Thursday.

Twenty-five hundred men of the ships were given shore leave Sunday, and 1,000 marched through Collins street to St. Patrick's cathedral, where pontifical mass was held at noon. The American blue jackets and marines were preceded by 2,000 cadets and a number of bands were in the procession. The streets were thronged with spectators, who gave the men a hearty welcome. After the services in the church were ended the men were served with lunch in the cathedral hall. Special services were held in all the Protestant churches.

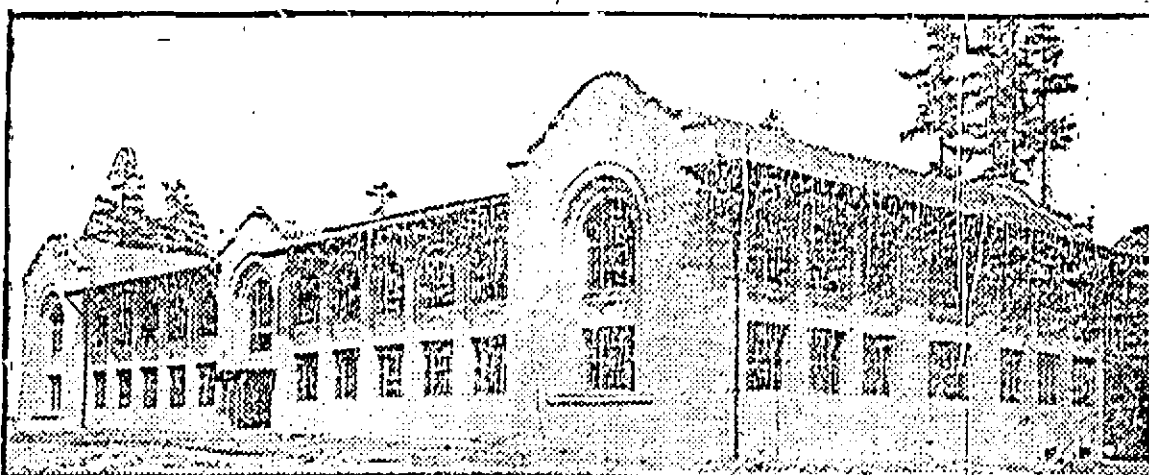

Later the Melbourne Automobile club, in 100 cars, took the officers of the fleet to view the points of interest in the city and the suburbs. During the course of the afternoon numerous private entertainments were given.

There were comparatively few visitors to the warships owing to the distance the vessels are lying from shore, but those who made the trip were enthusiastic in their expressions of admiration for the beauty and powerful appearance of the American men of war.

VIOLETS FOR MOTHER.

She bravely walked into a high toned florist shop, a mile of a girl.

An old shawl covered her head, clutched in her hand under her tiny chin. Underneath the garments were frayed, though scrupulously clean.

The young proprietor was engaged in selecting a dozen American Beauties for a young society girl. It was some time before he noted the little one.

"I want some violets to take to my mamma," said the little one, holding out a ten cent piece.

"Why," said the proprietor, smiling gravely: "I think some cheaper flowers would do, my little girl."

"No, sir," came from the tot. "I want violets. My mamma is sick, and my papa's dead. Mamma, she gets whiter and whiter every day. She just coughs awful. This morning she felt so weak and bad I just thought she'd die. But she said if she could only live till real warm weather comes again and she could smell violets once more she just knew she'd get better, and I had this dime, so I—"

But the florist was fumbling before a glass case marked, "Violets, $7.50 per dozen." There was an ache in his throat and a mist in his eyes.

In a minute he had a big bunch of the violets—dozens of them—wrapped up. He gravely took the child's 10 cents and gave her the bunch of precious flowers. He held the door open and gallantly bowed the little thing out as gallantly as he would have dismissed his richest customer.

He took the bit of silver and looked at it, the same sort of ache as before bothering his throat.

"Dying for a breath of the good old summer time and a breath of violets! That is all there is to the true story. And yet it is not all."

That to central

WHY, WITH THAT DIME ONE COULD BUY A SINNER'S RANSOM AT THE GATE OF HEAVEN.

And who shall say but that the good God's recording angel smiled to himself as he wrote the name of that young florist, like once he wrote the name of Ben Abou above all the rest?

Lawyers Endorse John L. Fisher For Re-Nomination For District Attorney.

We, the undersigned members of the Rock County Bar, hereby endorse John L. Fisher for re-nomination. We are familiar with his record and know that he has made an honest, able and economical District Attorney. We believe that by reason of his experience and past record the voters of Rock County should nominate John L. Fisher for a second term.

In view of the recent statement that many Rock County lawyers who signed Mr. Fisher's nomination paper did so unwittingly and are not now supporting him, the foregoing lawyers have volunteered the above statement. Many attorneys are out of the city and can therefore not make any statement concerning the misrepresentation. Such recommendations speak louder than any statements of self-praise written by the candidate himself. What do those who know say about you?

Mr. Fisher's endorsement by the County Board, by 750 leading citizens of the County, by the lawyers who know his record, his 9 years' experience as a lawyer against the inexperience of his opponent, should convince the voters that his re-nomination best conserves the public interests.

Tin Work of All K

DENTISTRY

If there is any reason why you should have dental work done there is EVERY reason why you should have it done by me.

If you are particular as to the appearance, quality and durability of your dental work, I can satisfy you in every way.

If you have me do your dental work, you can rely on its giving you good service.

If any of my work should happen to give you trouble, I will cheerfully make it right without further charge or expense to you.

My charge is only $5 for a full gold crown, where others charge you $10, and other dentistry in proportion.

It isn't every dentist that has facilities for treating tooth troubles in a PAINLESS manner, or that know how to go about it.

My up-to-date facilities enable me to do the work for less money than other dentists charge.

I treat hundreds of patients without causing them the LEAST PAIN, and they tell me so.

Let me do your next Dentistry, and you will be pleased also.

PRIMARY DAY IS NEXT SENSATION

TOMORROW PROMISES TO SEE SOME HOT CONTESTS DECIDED.

MUCH INTEREST SHOWN

Senatorial, Congressional, State and County Tickets to Be Named.

Tuesday, September first, is primary day and that means that by seven o'clock tomorrow evening the fate of the different republican aspirants for office in Rock county and the state at large will be decided by the voters' indications now point to a very heavy vote in the cities and a good vote in the country.

Not only are the United States senatorial and the congressional contests responsible for this, but the county contests for sheriff and district attorney. Workers for the different candidates will be hard at it early and late and great results are hoped from the persistent work of the various candidates.

The voter has four candidates for United States Senator to choose from——Lance Stephenson of Marinette, S. A. Cook of Neenah, William Hutton of New London and Francis McGovern of Milwaukee. Indications now point to a large vote for Stephenson in Rock county and the state at large.

In the congressional contests Thomas S. Nolan of Janesville and Henry Alton Cooper of Racine are the two contestants. Cooper is the present congressman and is opposed by Nolan. Indications now point to Nolan's carrying at least four of the six counties in the district.

The state ticket is not developing many contests with the exception of the Trotman-Strange fight for Lieutenant Governor. State gospel points to Trotman being the winner by a large majority.

In the county are three contests for the assembly. In the first district Lawrence Whitte is opposed by L. E. Gettle, in the second Grant U. H. by W. H. H. Macloon, and in the third Simon Smith by Dr. Merriam.

On the county ticket Howard Lee for county clerk has no opposition for re-election. For county treasurer A. M. Church of the town of Janesville, A. C. Powers of the town of Beloit, and George Woodruff of Janesville are out. Jesse Zarle is seeking re-election for clerk of the court without opposition. William B. Davis of the town of Janesville and Charles H. Weirick of the city, the present register, are seeking that office.

The fight for the sheriff's office and district attorney are the ones that have attracted the voters more than the others. For sheriff George H. Merrill of Beloit, E. H. Hanson of the town of Bradford and R. G. Schofield of Beloit are the contestants. John L. Fisher seeks re-election as district attorney and is opposed by Charles H. Hennigway of the town of Plymouth.

In the city the polls are open from six in the morning until seven in the evening and the voting will be done at the regular voting places. Rigs for various candidates will make the day as lively as a regular election and being a legal holiday the banks will be closed. The schools will also be required to remain closed until after the time of the closing of the polls.

The Gazette has made arrangements to throw the returns onto a large screen in front of the office as soon as they are received tomorrow evening. This will include the returns from the six counties of the first congressional district as well as Rock county and general news of the senatorial contest in the state at large.

CHARLES HORN DIED AT NOON ON SUNDAY

Passed Away after Brief Illness—Resident of City for Many Years.

Charles Horn, a well known resident of Janesville for the past thirty years, passed peacefully away at his home, 14 Corn Exchange, shortly after noon Sunday. He had been in ill health for a number of years but his last sickness was of but two weeks' duration and did not take a serious turn until the end of last week.

The deceased was born in the Duchy of Mecklenburg, Germany, in 1846 and came to America with his parents at the age of four. He lived in Milwaukee till 1881 when he came to Janesville to take charge of the old Crosscut mill, being a miller by trade.

Though young at the time of the civil war, Mr. Horn served three years with the Union army and saw much active service. He was a private in the First Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry of Heavy Artillery. After the war he was closely identified with military organizations. In 1874 he was appointed by Governor William H. Taylor to the captaincy of the Milwaukee light artillery and served in that position until the end of 1876. In Janesville he was prominent in the organization of W. H. Sargent Post, G. A. R.

Mr. Horn served the city of Janesville in different capacities. For six years he was alderman from the fourth ward, was for a time street commissioner and in the days of the volunteer fire department held the rank of assistant chief in that organization.

There are left to mourn his demise, a brother, William Horn of Hale's Corners, Wis., and four children: Mrs. A. F. Walker of Cincinnati, O., John and Grover Horn of this city and Louis Horn of Cincinnati.

The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon, the cortege leaving Kimball's store at two o'clock. The services are to be at the grave in Oak Hill cemetery and will be conducted by the Grand Army.

Mrs. Richard Dalton.

James Deo departed for Chicago yesterday to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. Richard Dalton, formerly of Janesville, who passed away Thursday afternoon. The deceased was a sister of Mrs. John Nelson who resides on Center avenue, this city, and was about 70 years of age. During her residence here she made her home in the fifth ward. Her husband was at one time foreman of the local C. & N. W. Ry. Co. roundhouse.

Hofmaster.

Word has been received in the city of the death last Tuesday of H. Hofmaster, for many years in the dry goods business on South Main street. His demise occurred at the Hotel Holmstrom, where he has made his home with his two sons for some time past. The remains were taken to Knoxville, Ill., for interment, the funeral being held on Thursday last.

Frank Nelson.

Frank, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Nelson, died at 2:30 a. m. Sunday, Aug. 30. Frank was born in Janesville, Feb. 14th, 1881, and has always made this city his home. He was Past Grand of Wisconsin Lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F., and also a member of Western Star Lodge No. 14, F. & A. M. Besides his parents there is left to mourn three brothers and three sisters. The funeral will be held at two o'clock on Tuesday afternoon from the residence of his sister, Mrs. Harry Van Gilder, 162 Milton avenue. T. H. Tippet officiating at the house. The Old Fellows will have charge of the funeral and services at the grave.

Edward N. Dingley.

Mr. Edward N. Dingley is a candidate for the republican nomination for congress to succeed Washington Gardner in the Third Michigan district. Congressman Gardner is contending for re-nomination.

Mr. Dingley is the son of Nelson Dingley, formerly a congressman of Maine and the author of the famous Dingley tariff bill. He is a resident of Kalamazoo, Mich., where he is the publisher of a newspaper. He is a forceful orator, a close student of public affairs and the writer of his father's biography.

TO SETTLE SEWER QUESTION TONIGHT

Indications Point to a Busy Session for the City Fathers This Evening.

Mayor Haddies being absent on a business trip to several Canadian cities, J. J. Dullin, president of the common council, will preside at the regular session this evening. Notwithstanding the fact that the street assessment committee and aldermen, meeting as a committee of the whole, decided in favor of the Parmley block system for the construction of the main outlet sewer, last Monday evening, it is understood that the question will be again open for debate this evening, arguments in favor of the Jackson pipe having won over some of the aldermen who wanted the Parmley blocks a week ago. The People's Construction Co. of Davenport, Ia., have completed the bulkhead and Supt. Vanderveke and his men are building the coffer dam for the siphon. A Carson excavator is on the ground and they are awaiting only the word as to what pipe construction is to be used before going ahead with the work "on shore." The ordinance making provisions for the bonds to cover the cost of sewer construction and the measure to regulate and license milk dealers which was given its first and second reading at the last meeting will be up for consideration and other important business will be transacted.

PLAN PICNIC FOR WEDNESDAY OF THE ST. ALOYSIUS BOYS

On Wednesday next one hundred and fifty boys, members of the St. Aloysius society of St. Patrick's church, will go to Rockford in three specially chartered cars on the Interurban. Athletic games will be enjoyed during the day including a ball game between the Fourth and Fifth ward teams and a tug of war at which the Fourth ward team challenges all comers. Local merchants have furnished the prizes for the contests.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Aug. 31, 1868.—Returned.—About twenty of our citizens went to La Crosse on Saturday to attend the funeral of Miss Leonora Strimberger which took place yesterday. Most of them returned today.

Removed to Milwaukee.—Mr. Roy at Wood, for many years a resident of this city, has purchased the entire interest in a heavy stable on Second street, Milwaukee. Our friends of the Green City will find Mr. Wood a very genial and obliging man, thoroughly posted in the business, and who may be relied upon for keeping up a first rate establishment.

Senatorial Convention.—The Senatorial Convention for the 17th district, composed of Rock county, met this afternoon in the court room in this city and nominated C. O. Williams, Esq., for Senator. It is an excellent selection, and one the people will endorse most heartily at the coming election. The delegates to the Congressional Convention at Watertown are Dr. Strout, of Beloit, and J. M. Burgess of this city.

Philadelphia, Aug. 31.—The gas meter in the basement of the U. S. Mint building exploded this morning, blowing out the windows on the floor

Find the Earl.

His Plight.

"The times may grow better," he asserted, as they went down in the elevator together, standing before the mirror in which she finished erasing. He gazed sorrowfully at the vacant spot that constituted the great distress of his life. "But," he added, "I'm afraid the hair will never again grow back on my head."

Chief Cause for Thankfulness.

There was a good deal of sound human nature in the unexpected reply of the dying old woman to her minister's leading question: "Here at the end of a long life, which of the Lord's mercies are you most thankful for?" Her eyes brightened as she answered: "My vitamins."

CHAPTER I.

Dust.

In the dull but dusk of a summer's day a green touring car, swinging out of the East drive, pulled up smartly, trembling at the edge of the Fifty-ninth street car tracks, then more sedately, under the dispassionate but watchful eye of a mounted member of the traffic squad, lurching across the Plaza and merged itself in the promenade of vehicles south bound on the avenue. Its tonneau held four young men, all more or less disguised in dust, dusts and goggles; forward, by the side of the grimy and anxious-eyed mechanic, sat a fifth, in all visible respects the counterpart of his companions. Beneath his mask, and by this I do not mean his goggles, but the mask of modern manner which the worldly wear, he was, and he, different. He was Daniel Maitland, Esquire; for whom no further introduction should be required, after mention of the fact that he was, and remains, the identical gentleman of means and position in the social and financial worlds, whose somewhat sober but sincere and wholehearted participation in the wildest of conceivable escapades had earned him the affectionate regard of the younger set, together with the sobriquet of "Mad Maitland."

His companions of the day, the four in the tonneau, were in that humor of subdued yet vibrant excitement which is apt to attend the conclusion of a long, hard drive over country roads. Maitland, on the other hand (judging him by his preoccupied pose), was already weary of, if not bored by, the hush-hushed enterprise which, initiated on the spur of an idle moment and directly due to a thoughtless remark of his own, had brought him 100 miles (or so) through the heat of a broiling afternoon, accompanied by spirits as ardent and irresponsible as his own, in search of the dubious distinction afforded by the night side of the city.

As, picking its way with elephantine nicety, the motor car progressed down the avenue—twilight deepening, areas upon their bronze columns blossoming suddenly, palely into spheres of opalescent radiance—Mr. Maitland ceased to respond, ceased even to give heed to the running fire of chaff (largely personal) which amused his companions. Lethargically engaged with a cigarette, he lounged upon the green leather cushions, half closing his eyes, and heartily wished himself free for the evening.

But he stood committed to the humor of the majority, and lacked entirely the shadow of an excuse to desert; in addition to which he was altogether too lazy for the exertion of manufacturing a lie of serviceable texture. And so abandoned himself to his fate, even though he foresaw with weariful particularity the programme of the coming hours.

To begin with, 30 minutes were to be devoted to a bath and dressing in his rooms. This was something not so unpleasant to contemplate. It was the afterwards that repelled him: Dinner at Sherry's, the subsequent tour of roof gardens, the late supper at a club, and then, prolonged far into the small hours, the session around some green-covered table in a close room reeking with the fumes of good tobacco and hot with the fever of gambling.

Abstractedly Maitland frowned, tersely summing up: "Heavily!"—in an undertone.

At this the green car wheeled abruptly round a corner below. Thirty-fourth street, still half a block or more east, and came to a palpitating halt. Maitland, looking up, recognized the entrance to his apartments, and sighed with relief for the brief respite from boredom that was to be his. He rose, negligently shaking off his dust, and stepped down to the sidewalk.

Somebody in the car called a warning after him, and turning for a moment he stood at attention, an eyebrow raised quizzically, cigarette drooping from a corner of his mouth, but pushed back from his forehead, hands in coat pockets; a tall, slender, sparsely built figure of a man, clothed immaculately in tannels.

When at length he was able to make himself heard: "Good enough," he said clearly, though without raising his voice. "Sherry's in an hour. Right. Now, behave yourselves."

"Mind you show up on time!" "Never fear," returned Maitland over his shoulder.

A witticism was flung back at him from the retreating car, but spent itself unregarded. Maitland's attention was temporarily distracted by the unusual—to say the least—sight of a young and attractive woman coming out of a home for confirmed bachelors.

The apartment house happened to be his own property. A substantial and old-fashioned edifice, situated in the middle of a quiet block, it contained but five rooms and comfortable suites—in other words, one to a door; and these were without exception tenanted by unmarried men of Maitland's own circle and acquaintance. The janitor, himself a widower and a convinced misanthrope, lived alone in the basement. Having very special and exceptional occasions (as when one of the bachelors felt called upon to give a tea in partial recognition of social obligations), the foot of woman never crossed its threshold.

In this circumstance, indeed, was comprised the singular charm the house had for its occupants. The quality which insured their privacy and a quiet independence rendered them oblivious to its many minor drawbacks, its lack of many conveniences and luxuries which have of late grown to be so commonly regarded as necessities. It boasted, for instance, no garage; no refrigerating system maddened those dependent upon it; a disreputable electric lighting system never went out of nights, because it had never been installed; no brass-bound hall boy lounged in demure upon the stoop and took too intimate and personal an interest in the tenants' correspondence. The inhabitants, in brief, were free to come and go according to the dictates of their consciences, unmolested by neighborly women folk, unhampered by a parasitic corps of menials not in their personal employ.

Wherefore was Maitland astonished, and the more so because of the season. At any other season of the year he would readily have accounted for the phenomenon that now fell under his observation, on the hypothesis that the woman was somebody's sister or cousin or aunt. But at present that explanation was untenable; Maitland happened to know that not one of the other men was in New York, barring himself; and his own presence there was a thing entirely unforeseen.

Still incredulous, he mentally con- nected the list: Barnes, who occupied the first flat, was travelling on the continent; Conkling, of the third, had left a fortnight since to join a yachting party on the Mediterranean; Hamblin and Wilcox, of the fourth and fifth floors, respectively, were in Newport and Buenos Aires.

"Odd!" concluded Maitland.

So it was. She had just closed the door, one thought; and now stood poised as if in momentary indecision on the low stoop, glancing toward Fifth avenue while she fumbled with a refractory button at the wrist of a long white kid glove. Blurred though it was by the darkling twilight and a thin veil, her face yet conveyed an impression of prothiness; an impression enhanced by careful grooming. From her hat, a small affair, something green, with a superstructure of gray ostrich feathers, to the tips of her russet shoes—including a walking skirt and below of shimmering gray silk—she was distinctly "smart" and interesting.

He had keenly observant eyes, had Maitland, for all his detached pose; you are to understand that he comprehended all these points in the flickering of an instant. For the incident was over in two seconds. In one the lady's hesitation was resolved; in another she had passed down the steps and swept by Maitland without giving him a glance, without even the trembling of an eyelash. And he had a view of her back as she moved swiftly away toward the avenue.

Perplexed, he lingered upon the stoop until she had turned the corner; after which he let himself in with a latch key, and, dismissing the affair temporarily from his thoughts, or pretending to do so, ascended the single flight of stairs to his flat.

Simultaneously heavy feet were to be heard clumping up the basement steps; and surmising that the janitor was coming to light the hall, the young man waited, leaning over the balustrade. His guess proving correct, he called down:

"O'Hagan? Is that you?"

"The lady's presence?" But "twas myself gave me the start, Mister Maitland, sir!" O'Hagan, purred in the gloom below, his upturned face faintly illuminated by the flame of a wax taper in his gaslighter:

"I'm dining in town to-night, O'Hagan, and dropped around to dress. Is anybody else at home?"

Sight of a Young and Attractive Woman Coming Out of a Home for Confirmed Bachelors.

"Niver a wan, sor, Shure, th' house do be quiet's anny tomb."

"Then who was that lady, O'Hagan?"

"Laddy, sor?"—in unbounded amazement.

"Yes," impatiently. "A young woman left the house just as I was coming in. Who was she?"

"Shure an' I think ye must be dreamin', sor. Divvie a female—rhaps to ye!—has been in this house for many an' many th' weeks, sor."

"But I tell you—"

"Belike 'twas some wan 'st stepped into the vestibule, mebbe to do her shoes, sor, and ye thought—"

"Oh, very well," Maitland retorted, quelling the insinuation as unprofitable, willing to concede O'Hagan's theory a reasonable one, the more readily since he himself could by no means have sworn that the woman had actually come out through the door. Such had merely been his impression, honest enough, but founded on circumstantial evidence.

"When ye're through, O'Hagan," he told the Irishman, "you may come and shave me and lay out my things, if you will."

"Very good, sor. In-wan minute."

But O'Hagan's conception of the passage of time was a thought vague; his one minute had lengthened into ten before he appeared to wait upon his employer.

Now and again, in the absence of the regular "man," O'Hagan would attend one or another of the tenants in the capacity of substitute valet; as in the present instance, when Maitland, having left his hat's roof without troubling even to notify his body-servant that he would not return that night, called upon the janitor to undertake the more trained employ; which O'Hagan could be counted upon to do very acceptably.

Now, with patience unruffled, since he was nothing keen for the evening's enjoyment, Maitland made profit of the interval to wander through his rooms, lighting the gas here and there and noting that all was as it should be, as it had been left—save that every article of furniture and bric-a-brac seemed to be sadly in want of a thorough dusting. In the end he brought up in the room that served him as study and lounge—the drawing room of the flat, as planned in the forgotten architect's scheme—a large and well-lighted apartment overlooking the street. Here, pushing beneath the chandelier, he looked about him for a moment, determining that, as elsewhere, all things were in order—but gray with dust.

Finding the atmosphere heavy, stale, and oppressive, Maitland moved over to the window and threw them open. A gust of warm air, humid and redolent of the streets, invaded the room, together with the roar of traffic from its nearby arteries. Maitland rested elbows on the sill and leaned out, staring absently into the night; for by now it was quite dark. Without concern, he realized that he would be late at dinner. No matter; he would as willingly miss it altogether. For the time being he was absorbed in vain speculations about an unknown woman whose sole claim upon his consideration lay in a certain but immaterial glamour of mystery. Had she, or had

ASK FOR WASHBURN-CROSBY'S GOLD MEDAL FLOUR THE VERY HIGHEST QUALITY

She had, been in the house? And, if the true answer were in the affirmative, to what end, upon what errand?

His eyes focused intently upon a void of darkness beneath him—night made visible by street lamps; and he found himself suddenly and acutely sensible of the wonder and mystery of the City; the City, whose secret life ran fluent upon the hot, hard pavements below, whose voices thrrobed, vibrant, vague, strident, inarticulate, upon the night air; the City of which he was a part equally with the girl in gray, whom he had never before seen, and in all likelihood was never to see again, though the two of them were to work out their destinies within the bounds of Manhattan Island. And yet.

"It would be strange," said Maitland thoughtfully, "if . . . He shook his head, smiling. "Two shall be born," quoted Mad Maitland, sentimentally.

"Two shall be born, the whole wide world apart."

A piano organ, having maliciously sneaked up beneath his window, drove him indoors with a crash of metallic melody.

As he dropped the curtains his eye was arrested by a gleam of white upon his desk—a letter placed there, doubtless, by O'Hagan in Maitland's absence. At the same time, a splashing and gurgling of water from the direction of the bathroom informed him that the janitor-valet was even then preparing his bath. But that could wait.

Maitland took up the envelope and tore the flap, remarking the name and address of his lawyer in its upper left-hand corner. Unfolding the inclosure, he read a date a week old, and two lines requesting him to communicate with his legal adviser upon "a matter of pressing moment."

"Rather!" said Maitland. "What the deuce?"

"He pulled up short, eyes lighting. "That's so, you know," he argued. "Bannerman will be delighted, and— even business is better than rushing round town and pretending to enjoy yourself when it's better than the seven brass hinges of hell and you can't think of anything else. . . . I'll do it!"

He stepped quickly to the corner of the room, where stood the telephone upon a small side table, sat down, and, receiver to ear, gave central a number. In another moment he was in communication with his attorney's residence.

"Is Mr. Bannerman in? I would like to."

"Why, Mr. Bannerman! How do you do?"

To be continued.

EDGERTON

Edgerton, Aug. 31.—Miss Agnes Stewart left this morning for Holbrook, N. J., where she will be married to David K. Hampton, formerly of Brooklyn, Scotland. Miss Stewart came here from Perth, Scotland, two years ago and has made many warm friends here who extend their hearty congratulations.

News reached here Saturday of the death of Mrs. Florence Blaisdell, wife of Dr. Hubert Blaisdell, formerly located here but now living at Waukegan, Ill. Mrs. Blaisdell only lived here about a year, but made many warm friends. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, a little daughter and one brother. Friends here extend their sympathy to the bereaved family. Miss Ella Grover returned to her home at Waukegan this morning after a week's visit with Miss May Spencer.

Mrs. E. E. Connelly and son and Mrs. B. Connelly of Minneapolis, Minn., are visiting at the home of James Stafford.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Oleson leave tonight for Rocky, Minn., where they will visit with relatives for a few days. They will also visit relatives at Valen, N. D. They expect to be in the west about six weeks.

Miss May Spencer is transacting business in Chicago today. The Misses Mildred Barker and Anna Lang of Columbus were over-Sunday guests of Miss Ella Carlsson.

Mrs. Gilmore of Horicon, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. Atwell, left this morning for Milwaukee, where she will spend a few days before returning to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Hutson and daughter, who have been spending the summer here, leave tonight for their home in Seattle, Wash.

BRODHEAD

Brodhead, Aug. 31.—Miss Florence is spending a week or two with Harold and Rockford friends.

H. B. Ten Eyck was in Janesville on Saturday.

Master Arthur Swan of Chicago who has been here visiting with his grandmother, Mrs. M. H. Doty, for some time past, left for his home on Saturday.

Mrs. J. W. Stewart of Blanchardville, a candidate for county clerk of Green county, was in Brodhead on Saturday looking after his interests.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Kurney have returned from their visit to Chicago and Michigan points.

Mrs. L. Wilson and children of Orfordville visited with Brodhead friends on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Hartman of Marshfield, are here for a short visit.

Mrs. Addie Blackdown is visiting with friends in Winnebago and Rockford.

Mr. John F. Wright of Chicago was a Brodhead visitor Saturday.

Mrs. Libbie Heath and baby of Oregon, Ill., is here for a visit with friends.

Mrs. Nellie Hitchcock and children of Pequotia are here to remain a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Horne who have been making their home in Mineral Point for the past few years, have returned to Brodhead, and will make their home here during the future.

Mr. Frank Wain of Monticello spent Saturday here on business.

Mr. H. W. Gehr of Waukegan, Minn., is visiting old friends of twenty years ago.

Mrs. T. Lewis of Fond du Lac is here to spend a fortnight with relatives.

Mike Brodbeck and Alfred Pierce were passengers to Madison on Saturday afternoon. The former on business, the latter to spend Sunday with his mother and brother.

Mrs. Robert Skidmore went on Saturday to spend some time with Milton and Janesville friends.

Mr. Richard Glennan, formerly of Albany, but now engaged as an operator on the new Pacific extension of the C. M. & St. Paul Ry., was in the city on Saturday a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Grenawalt were here Saturday on their way home from a visit with Spring Grove relatives.

Mr. L. M. Stauffer of Monroe spent a few hours here on Saturday.

Mrs. G. E. Dix is enjoying a visit from her sister, Mrs. Spencer of Chicago.

Mr. C. A. Anderson is spending the week with Viroqua friends.

Mr. J. C. Bridg of Madison came down from that city Saturday evening.

Mrs. W. L. Stephenson and son Leo of Ladysmith, came to Brodhead Saturday evening for a few days' visit with friends.

Moral and Material Responsibility. Private life should be walled in and sacred, but public life has no such right. All public existence created by great public interests creates a responsibility, and this responsibility is moral as well as material. There is no gaining this, and all public functions admit they are responsible for their personal actions.—Pierce Anjou Corvair.

Science and Invention

IMPROVED PICKLE FORK

Groups Pickle So It Cannot Fall Out When Driven Out of Bottle. A distinct improvement in pickle forks has been devised by a Louisiana man, who realized how difficult it is to attempt to remove the last few pickles resulting in the bottom of the bottle with the ordinary pickle fork. In using the latter, it is a very easy matter to pierce the pickle with the prongs of the fork, but when it is hoisted to the top, it invariably falls off or refuses to go through the neck of the bottle. It will be readily noticed how easy the operation can be performed with the present shown here. There is no necessity of selecting the pickle. Instead it is grasped in a pair of curved prongs, like a pair of pliers, and thus drawn out of the bottle. There is but little chance of it dropping off, as the grip on the pickle is controlled by the finger rings on the handle. When appropriated this implement would be as attractive as the ordinary pickle fork.

FANNED WHILE ROCKING

Attachment for Rocking Chair. Operates Fan Automatically. The fan attachment for rocking chairs illustrated in the accompanying engraving is particularly adapted for use at the present time. It is well known that the effort of fanning will overheat the body to a greater extent than the benefit derived from the fan. Naturally all this is overcome in this automatic fanning attachment. The fan is secured to a bar so that it will be directly in front of the face of the person in the chair. This bar connects with rods and braces extending from the rocker. As the latter is forced back and forth, the fan is automatically revolved. Both hands are, of course, free. If the occupant be a woman who desires to do embroidery, knitting or some similar occupation, she can readily do so, being assured that the fan will keep her cool and that both hands will be entirely free.

FOUNTAIN IN ROASTING PAN

Meat Constantly Sprayed While Undergoing Cooking Process.

It is quite a common kitchen custom for the cook who is superintending the roasting of a piece of meat to open the oven door at somewhat frequent intervals, not only for the purpose of watching the roasting operation, but to cover the meat with a couple of tablespoonfuls of the gravy taken from the bottom of the pan. The effect of this is to prevent the meat from drying out. The eating quality of the roast is greatly improved by this treatment. A roasting 'pan' which does this operation automatically has been recently brought to the attention of the women. It is supplied with a percolator, the operation of which is performed by the action of the heat and the water which is in the bottom of the roasting pan. The pan has an inclined bottom, so that the water which it contains runs down toward the percolator, while the roast rests on a level roasting plate, which is raised above the bottom of the pan and keeps the meat out of the water. In using the roaster two quarts of water are poured into the pan, the roasting plate put in and the percolator set in place. The roast is then put in and the cover put in place and the whole placed in the top of the oven, where it is allowed to remain under the action of the heat for the usual length of time. The water is boiled in the aluminum plate which is part of the percolator and bubbles up, raising and lowering the check valve and gradually forcing the water up the pipe, from which it is sprayed over the meat.

TELEPHONES MOVING TRAINS

Engineer's Cab Connected by Apparatus With Dispatcher's Office.

It has long been recognized that some means by which telephone communication could be held by a train in motion would be of great advantage as an addition to the block system. One of the most recent suggestions along this line is an apparatus invented by an Iowa man, the details of which are shown in the accompanying illustration. A horizontal bar of metal extends from the side of the tender for its entire length. This bar drops close to the outer rail, making electrical connection, with metal standards set in the ties beside the track. The distance between these standards is a little less than the length of the bar, so that the latter is always in contact with at least one of them. A telephone is mounted in the cab of the locomotive and connected through the locomotive's wheels and the rails to the dispatcher's station, his house or other point. It will be seen therefore, that communication may be had with the train at all points along the track where the standards are located. These can be placed at the beginning and end of blocks, or at other points where it would be of advantage to hold communication with the moving train.

THOSE SUMMER RESORTS.

VOTERS! ATTENTION!

Do you want the office of District Attorney conducted on the square? Do you want Fisher or Hemingway?

Below is a statement of J. N. Graff, made on January 27, 1908, long enough ago so that it is self-evident that it was not made for political purposes:

"I was told by C. H. Sharpe that the District Attorney (John Fisher) wanted to see me to do some work for him so I went up to his office. He told me that there was a blind pig at Crystal Springs and that he wanted me to go there and get evidence against them. I went to Crystal Springs Saturday, July 20, and Sunday, July 21. I took two witnesses and bought beer there and reported it to the District Attorney and he asked me to go down to the Municipal Court and swear out the warrant and I did so, and Mr. Gehrke came into court and plead guilty and paid a fine of $50 and costs, and then I went to Mr. Fisher for my pay and he said that the Judge would not allow any of my expenses with the costs and the Anti-Saloon League would have to pay me. I told him he hired me and not the League, but he would not pay me. My bill was $21.50 which included $11.00 cash that I paid out besides my wages. I waited several weeks and then went to him and asked him if he would see it was allowed if I charged my bill to the county, and he said if I would cut it down he would, so I put in the bill at $17.50 and it was not allowed." (Signed) JASPER N. GRAFF, "136 19th St., Milwaukee."

"Dated this 27th day of January, 1908."

Below is the statement of Paul Gehrke, proprietor of Crystal Springs Park on Rock River above Janesville, and the man mentioned by Mr. Graff in his statement:

"I am the owner and manager of Crystal Springs Park. On or about July 10th, 1907, I went to John L. Fisher, District Attorney, and told him I was selling liquor without a license at my place up the river and asked him if any complaints or kicks had been made, and told him if he said so I would stop selling at once, because I did not want to be arrested and fined. District Attorney Fisher said no complaints or kicks had been made and if any were made he would notify me. On July 22, 1907, without any notice whatever, I was arrested for selling liquor without a license and I pleaded guilty and paid my fine of $50 and costs. For a long time I was unable to learn who had caused the investigation because District Attorney Fisher tried to make me believe he had nothing to do with it except as prosecuting officer, but I have since learned that the investigation was caused by District Attorney Fisher. I have never complained because I was fined for selling liquor without a license, but have always felt that I did not get a square deal from District Attorney John L. Fisher." (Signed) PAUL GEHRKE, "Dated, Janesville, Wis., August 28, 1908."

1. Which of the parties interested—Graff, Gehrke or the people—got a square deal?
2. Is such conduct consistent with the kind of a man you want for District Attorney?

MODERN POLITICAL METHODS

The following is a copy of a letter which Mr. Fisher sent to those who "dared" to sign Mr. Hemingway's nomination papers:

"Aug. 12, 1908. Dear Friend: Upon looking over the nomination papers at the Court House I was very much surprised to see your name as a signer to Mr. Hemingway's nomination paper. I assume that you signed his paper without thinking very much about it. It does not seem to me that the voters of Rock County could afford to elect Mr. Hemingway District Attorney. Outside of that matter I rather thought you would be friendly to me on account of old time associates and believe and hope you will see your way clear to render me what assistance you can. I am enclosing you a few circulars which I wish you would look over. You will notice by the same that my work has been endorsed by the members of the County Board and also by the local attorneys and business men in the City of Janesville. These men are familiar with my work and if they are satisfied, it seems to me that Mr. Hemingway ought to be, it seems to me as honest lovers ought to stick together. Thanking you for the many kind things you have done for me in the past, and trusting that you will see your way clear to do what you can for me on Sept. 1st, I am, Yours sincerely, JOHN L. FISHER."

ARCHBISHOP DIOMEDE FALCONIO.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—The many friends of Archbishop Diomedes Falconio are delighted by the assurance recently received that he will be called to Rome within the next six months to receive the cardinal's hat in reward for his successful diplomatic mission from the Vatican to the Roman Catholic church in the United States. Third apostolic delegate from this holy see to the American church, Mr. Falconio is the only one who

There are no resting spots in this story of fast and furious action.—Detroit Times.
The Brass Bowl is one of the best pieces of rattling romance put out in many a day.—New York Sun.
Try it on your hypochondriac, melancholy neighbor and see if it does not do him good.—Syracuse Good Health Clinic.
The interest in the progress of the story is intense; the action is rapid and thrilling; and the author is alive to the charm of the beautiful and to the humor of his situations.—Chicago Tribune.
Daring invention, tempered by knowledge of real life and interpreted by apt expression, recommends The Brass Bowl to lovers of literature, and to all who like to yield to the thrill of romantic adventures.—Brooklyn Standard.
A tale of rapid adventure which carries us, with a pleasant sense of surprise and exhilaration, over the thin ice of its probability. It pictures a sea-saw struggle of wits between a young club man and a burglar, while the clever little heroine stands between them and teeters the plank.—Life.
